Welcome!

On behalf of the Executive Committee of the Society for the Psychology of Religion and Spirituality (APA Division 36), it is our great pleasure to share with you the Programming for our 2019 Mid-Year Conference being held on April 5-6, 2019 in Bowling Green, OH. We are pleased to offer an array of presentations, all designed to fulfill our mission to help promote psychological theory, research, and clinical practice to understand the significance of religion and spirituality in people's lives and the discipline of psychology. Our programming reflects the fact the Society is nonsectarian and does not espouse or endorse any particular religious positions or beliefs. Please take a few minutes to check out all our offerings.

Warm Regards,

Annette Mahoney, Ph.D.          Jordan LaBouff, Ph.D.
2018 President, SPRS           2019 Program Chair

<td>The annual fee for full members and professional affiliates is $40. Student affiliates are charged $15 to cover the expense of division publications.</td>

A wide variety of psychological interests and activities exist among the members of the division. Members work in virtually every area, from experimental and statistical research to clinical work with children and adults. We are concerned with both the scientific and applied aspects of our field. Many members do research exclusively on issues in the psychology of religion and spirituality; others bring this interest to bear on a variety of allied areas in psychology. Our professional affiliates may be found working in sociology, religious studies, and the other social sciences. Some members also possess a clerical degree and integrate psychology with the requirements of pastoral life as researchers and practicing clinicians.

Benefits
Membership includes receiving the division newsletter and professional contacts in the field. Most valuable are opportunities for participating in the annual convention and divisional affairs as well as opportunities for awards and seed grants. These allow a kind of personal and intellectual stimulation not available elsewhere. Joint membership in our division and APA also helps us achieve important advocacy priorities within APA concerning the psychology of religion and spirituality. Members will also receive the divisions' official journal, Psychology of Religion and Spirituality.

Membership
You do not need to be a member of APA to join The Society for the Psychology of Religion and Spirituality. If you are an APA member, you may apply for membership at a level consistent with your status in APA. Applications may be submitted online via the general division membership form.

Continuing Education Hours

The Ohio Psychological Association has approved all of the invited presentations that are shaded in grey for Continuing Education (CE) Hours for Ohio psychologists. If you are not licensed as a psychologist in Ohio, please check with your licensing board to confirm that the CE hours at this conference meet the CE requirements of your particular license board. Many states have reciprocal agreements so that hours that count for licensure in one state are recognized by another state. For example, OPA accepts CE hours approved by any other US state licensing board. (Although OPA is an APA approved CE provider, OPA’s policy is that OPA will not and does not “co-sponsor” any CE hours; some state boards will do this. As a result, the conference is not APA approved via OPA being a “co-sponsor.”)

You must sign an attendance form for EACH separate CE presentation. These presentations vary in length of time. Each invited Key Note presentations is a 60 minute presentation. The Invited Presentations involve 30 minute solo talks on a given topic from individual speakers. The Invited Symposium involve three or four basic or applied research studies that are presented during a 50 minute window. The Invited Research Toolkit presentations involve a 60 min presentation focused on research oriented topics such as grant applications or research methods. Finally, on Saturday afternoon, there will be an invited 3 hour clinical workshop. You must be present for the entirety of these distinct and separate presentations to earn the respective number of CE credits that will range from 0.5, 1.0 to 3.0 hours.
